BURNS AT MEMPHIS THE USUAL NUMBER NEW CUSTOM HOUSE PROSPECTS ARE FINE ALL THESE FELT BAD MANY USED BULLETS

The Sun, Formerly in the Tennessee River Trade, Destroyed Yesterday.

Lives of Sleeping Passengers Lost Before They Could Be Rescued.

THE LOSS WILL BE $10,000 OR MORE

The steamer Sun, which formerly plied in the Paducah and Tennessee river trade, with Captain Douglas Jones as master, was burned yesterday morning at Memphis. Three perished. The Memphis dispatches say:

The stern wheel steamer Sun, plowing between this port and Fulton, Tenn., burned to the water's edge at 5 o'clock at her moorings, at the wharf, on the city front. The boat arrived from Fulton at about midnight with fifteen passengers, all of whom were asleep on board when the fire broke out.

Of these three are known to be lost, viz: D. N. Rainey and his wife, of Old River, Tenn., and Mrs. G. M. Tims, of Richardson's Landing, Tenn. Their charred remains have been recovered from the wreck.

The fire originated in a pile of seed cotton on boiler deck and was probably started by a spark from the furnace. The boat was valued at $10,000 and was about half insured. The cargo, which was totally destroyed, consisted of twenty-seven bales of cotton and a lot of cotton seed and seed cotton oil, besides miscellaneous freight.

A child of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Tims was also lost.

Today's Memphis Commercial-Appeal says: "A few minutes before 5 o'clock Yates, the night watchman of the Sun, descended into the hold of the vessel to make the customary inspection before going off watch. All was well on the decks, and in the cabin when the watchman went below. He was in the hold about ten minutes. When he came again upon the lower deck a bright blaze among the sacks of seed attracted his attention. Yates says that an area of twelve feet by eighteen inches on the top of the huge pile of sacks was afire.

"Understanding the combustible nature of the material, and realizing that the lives of the passengers remaining upon the boat were in jeopardy, the watchman hurried to the cabin and ran through its length, knocking upon the doors of the staterooms and yelling 'Fire' at the top of his voice. The wildest confusion followed. Men and women rushed from their staterooms in their night robes.

"The watchman had been gone too soon. Before he reached the lower deck again [the flames had wrapped the pile of cotton sacks and communicated with the stairway leading to the cabin and upper decks. The beams supporting the superstructure were burning, and it was soon evident that the cabin and Texas would soon collapse.

"The spectators on the bluffs and banks saw men and women plunging into the river from the burning decks. Above the crackling of the flames and shouts of the rescuers rose the pathetic screams of a helpless woman, who was vainly sacrificing her life for her child.

A mass of driftwood had accumulated between the Sun and the government boat Wright. When all hope of escape from the shore side had been cut off by the fire, several passengers jumped up the floating logs and were rescued by the heroic efforts of William Anderson, a sailor on the Wright.

G. N. Rainor and wife perished in their stateroom. Mr. Rainor was an invalid and came to Memphis to enter St. Joseph's hospital for treatment, being afflicted with heart disease. He was 50 years old, and a planter. His wife was about the same age, and was accompanying him to the hospital, where she proposed remaining while her husband was undergoing treatment. It will never be known just how the couple perished. It was in all probability another case of a woman's devotion and sacrifice. The charred bodies were found in a position corresponding with the location

Yesterday was a Day of Accidents, a Few Serious Ones.

No Fatal Mishaps Are Reported, Many Loaded Cartridges Were Shot.

MANY WINDOWS WERE FIRED INTO

Louisville, Dec. 26.—The usual number of Christmas crimes and casualties is reported this morning from various Kentucky towns.

At Lockport, Ky., Jack Estes was shot dead by a drunken man, who was arrested.

Two negroes were mortally wounded in quarrels at Frankfort yesterday. Scott Texar, colored, was mysteriously killed at Lexington, Ky.

A Lexington merchant was fatally hurt by a cannon cracker.

A Stanford merchant had an arm blown off by a cannon cracker.

There were numerous other minor accidents.

BAD WRECK.

SEVERAL HURT ON THE I. C. AT FULTON.

Fulton, Ky., Dec. 26.—Chicago passenger train No. 1 ran into a freight train in the yards here Tuesday night. Express Messenger Leonard Connor of Cairo was seriously injured, and F. L. Gallagher of Quincy, Ill., who was stealing his way, had his hand crushed so that amputation was necessary. The freight train was pulling across the yards to the double track, and the flagman failed to put out a signal. Engineer Jim McNamara of Paducah, and his fireman A. H. Williamson of Memphis, stayed with their engine and neither was hurt. Engine No. 208 was made into kindling wood by the wreck, and fifteen cars were damaged.

CUTTING AFFRAY

ALBERT HICKERSON, COLORED, CUT IN THE ARM YESTERDAY.

Albert Hickerson, the colored porter at the Nelson saloon, near Fourth and Clark streets, was badly cut yesterday morning about 11 o'clock by a white man named Bolan. Bolan, it is claimed, was drinking, and did the cutting without provocation. Hickerson was cut in the left arm. Dr. Robertson dressed the injury. Bolan is at large, but will probably be arrested for the cutting.

LARGE CROWDS.

ATTEND THE VARIOUS ENTER-

TAINMENTS THROUGHOUT THE CITY.

All the church services and entertainments yesterday and today were well attended by both young and old. The weather was as beautiful and mild as could have been wished, and the little folks, as well as the larger ones, seemed to enjoy the various things very much.

JOE JOHNSON, COLOR-RED, ARRESTED.

Joe Johnson, colored, was arrested this morning by Officer Jones on a warrant charging him with a breach of the peace, by being drunk and using profane language. He was found with a fine silk umbrella in his possession and upon investigation it was learned that the article had been taken from the Eley Dry Goods establishment.

SUES FOR DIVORCE.

Robert McCune has filed a suit against his wife, Eileen, for divorce and the custody of their child, to be placed in the hands of its grandmother, Mrs. Sallie Grief. He gives as his grounds for the action infidelity. They separated yesterday.

SENSE OF PUBLIC DUTY.

New York, Dec. 26.—Grover Cleveland accepts a place on the capital and labor peace committee. He says he serve as a "Sense of Public Duty."

It is probable that the matter of enlarging the government building here will be taken up by the Commercial club, and some action tending to assist Congressman Wheeler in securing the passage of the bill taken.

A letter has been received from Congressman Wheeler, who is still in Washington, stating that his bill, which calls for a $100,000 appropriation, was referred to the supervising architect, who reported it favorably to the committee on public buildings and grounds, which now has it, and which seems to regard it favorably.

The idea embodied in the bill is to duplicate the present custom house. This, Congressman Wheeler says, was the original idea when the present building was designed. It was arranged so that in the course of years it could be duplicated by adding to it another building exactly like it.

This is what the new bill provides for. The new structure, if Congress orders it built, will be exactly like the present one, the two to be joined together by an archway. This was anticipated years ago, it being known that the building would not be large enough in the course of years.

The idea in the bill, Congressman Wheeler declares, is his own, and the bill is not a duplicate of the one introduced by Senator Deboe. It is following out the plan intended when the present building was built, and one made necessary by the increase in the basis of business transacted at the building.

Congressman Wheeler believes that the bill will carry, and is anxious to have the assistance of the Commercial club and other local interests. It is not yet known when the Commercial club will meet to consider the matter.

OFFICER CUT.

ONLY ONE SERIOUS ACCIDENT REPORTED FROM ME-TROPOLIS.

A report comes from Metropolis that "Dug" Gregory, a special holiday policeman, was cut in the head last night at Metropolis by a drunken man and seriously injured. His head was split several inches to the bone, but the wound is not considered fatal. This was the only accident or serious affray reported from Metropolis yesterday.

WAS REMOVED TODAY.

New York, Dec. 26.—Edward S. Maclay was today summarily removed from the navy department. The civil service commission writes him it is no violation of the civil service act.

LOOTED BY LIBERALS.

AN AMERICAN CONCERN AT NOMBRE DE DIOS SUFFERED HEAVILY AND IS PRESENTING A CLAIM.

Colon, Colombia, Dec. 26.—During the absence of the government soldiers the Liberals returned to Nombre de Dios and looted the commissariat of Manganese Mining company, an American concern. They also threatened the life of the custodian of the stores, who was forced to surrender their keys. The company is presenting a claim to the government for the loss sustained by it. On the arrival of the United States gunboat Marietta at Nombre de Dios and subsequently when the Colombian gunboat General Pinzon reached the same place with fifty soldiers on board, the Liberals again disappeared. After landing the troops at Nombre de Dios, the Pinzon proceeded to Savanilla. Captain Foliao, who was commander of the Pinzon, and several of his officers returned to Colon yesterday on board the Marietta, and have since sailed for San Juan de Porto Rico.

General Alban has received a cable dispatch announcing the evacuation of Tumaco. Some of the revolutionists left there on board the Salvadorian steamer Ibis and others left by land, intending to attack Buena Ventura. A strong government force has left Buena Ventura to meet the revolutionists.

General Alban says that if the Monroe doctrine could be made to provide compulsory arbitration to settle all disputes between South American republics and European nations, it would be accepted with enthusiasm by all those republics.

HOLIDAY TRAVEL.

IT HAS BEEN COMPARATIVELY LIGHT THIS YEAR.

Railroad people are having no trouble in reaching an agreement on at least one point, and that is the fact that holiday traffic has not been half as great in volume as it was last year. The reduction in the number of people who take advantage of the cheap rates to spend Christmas "at home" is accounted for in a number of ways, each section affording some peculiar reason why its inhabitants can not leave for other parts. It is astonishing to note the percentage of population in any particular region that has drifted to it from other parts of the country, and which element always lets its thoughts turn toward the place from which they originally came when the season for turkey, hung-up stockings and fire crackers arrives.

The larger portion of the travel is among the classes that must take emigrant accommodations, and a motley throng is that which has crowded the depots for the past week. Every one of the passengers has faced the hardships of the long trips before, and has inwardly sworn that the trip finished should be the last of his life, but the inward resolution is forgotten when the holiday season arrives announcing the fact that cheap rates are on rolls around, and the same old experiences are repeated.

KILLING IN TENNESSEE.

BOYS DESTROY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS PRESENTS AND HE USES HIS GUN.

Columbia, Tenn., Dec. 26.—Pharaoh Brewer was shot and killed at Enterprise, fourteen miles west of here, by John Stevenson, colored. The difficulty was caused by a crowd of boys stopping Stevenson, who was on his way home with a lot of Christmas purchases in a wagon, taking his wagon from him and destroying its contents. Stevenson secured a shotgun, returned to the scene of the trouble and in the row that ensued shot Brewer to death.

TAKEN TO FRANKFORT.

COLORED FEMALE GOES THERE FOR THREE YEARS TODAY.

Deputy Sheriff R. C. Utterback left at noon today for Frankfort with Josie Whale, colored, charged with grand larceny and sentenced to three years.

While there he will make final settlement with the auditor for Sheriff Rogers, who goes out of office next week.

NOT QUITE SETTLED.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE TANDY MAY REMAIN.

Assistant Secretary of State Harry G. Tandy, who is here spending the holidays, states that the publication that he will retire March 1st, was a little premature.

He and Mr. Simeon Cook made an agreement before the election to divide the term, as stated, but Mr. Cook, who resides at Shebyville, does not desire to move to Frankfort, which he would have to do in case he became secretary of state, instead of a clerk in the corporation department. If he concludes to make the change, however, it will become effective March 1st. The salary of the two offices is the same.

NEW EQUIPMENT ORDERED.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL HAS CONTRACTED FOR 1,500 ADDITIONAL BOX CARS.

The freight department of the Illinois Central railroad has received gratifying information. In addition to the 800 cars that are now being delivered to the road an order has been placed with the Pullman company for 1,500 more cars of 80,000 pounds capacity each. The cars are to be delivered as soon as the company having the contract can turn them out and put them on wheels. Freight work is about four or five days behind at present, and more empties are expected to arrive at once for the relief of the situation.

APPLY FOR BAIL.

TWO ALLEGED MURDERERS WILL SHORTLY FILE MOTIONS.

Two alleged murderers in the county jail here will shortly make application for bail. One is James Spriggs, colored, given twenty-one years for manslaughter, and whose case was appealed, and the other is Will Hamilton white, who as indicted but did not get a trial at the last term of court. If he does not succeed in getting bail he will have to remain in jail until April.

WORK OF ART.

PORTRAIT OF A PADUCAH MAN PAINTED BY A LOCAL ARTIST.

A handsome portrait is an oil painting of Mr. Joseph L. Friedman, painted by Mrs. Hal Walters of Paducah, and presented to Mr. Friedman.

The work is fine, and the likeness could not be improved upon. Mr. Friedman is justly proud of the painting, which reflects great credit on the artist, whose exceptional ability could not have been better displayed.

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE.

SUICIDE OF A CHICAGO BUSINESS MAN ATTRIBUTED TO WORRY AND OVERWORK.

Chicago Dec. 26.—James A. Todd, manager of the Towle Manufacturing company, silversmiths, at 149-153 State street, was found dead in the lavatory of the store. He had locked himself in the lavatory, after having drawn a tube from a gas jet through the keyhole.

Mr. Todd was fifty-two years old, and came here several years ago from Walcott, Conn. He lived in the suburb of La Grange. His business associates say he had no domestic or business troubles; that it was worry and overwork that caused him to commit suicide.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

TRIGG COUNTY MAN RETURNS HOME TO SEE HIS PARENTS.

Cadiz, Dec. 26.—After an absence of thirteen years, Mr. James H. Jefferson reached Cadiz, and will remain here until the 3rd of January on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Jefferson, west of town, his brother, John J. Jefferson, in this city, and hosts of other old friends and Trigg county relatives.

He left Trigg county on the 2d of March 1889, and after traveling all over the West, from the coast of Alaska to the Mexican border, responded to the call for troops of the United States when the war broke out with Spain, and on the 22d of June, '98, enlisted in the regular army at Ft. Walla Walla, Washington. He was mustered out of service on the 28th of February following, but re-enlisted in the regular army the next day—March 1st, 1899—for three years' service, and as a member of Troop F, has been in Uncle Sam's service ever since.

"JENNIE JUNE" DIES

NEVER FULLY RECOVERED FROM FALL TWO YEARS AGO WHEN SHE BROKE HER HIP.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—A New York telegram to the Tribune says:

Mrs. Jennie C. Croly, widely known by her pen name, "Jennie June," died of heart failure. She had never fully recovered her health after the fall in which she broke her hip, two years ago, and last year heart trouble developed. Mrs. Croly returned last spring from England, where she had been in the hope of recovering her health when she passed away.

$15,000 A YEAR.

CHINESE WILL PAY THIS LARGE AMOUNT OF MONEY TO AN AMERICAN.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 26.—The steamer Brasmer, which arrived from the Orient, brings news that the Chinese court has decided to engage in American adviser. The name of the official is not given by the Oriental papers, but the Chinese press states that the salary is to be $15,000 a year.

The Japan Mail commenting on this, says it is a wise step for China, for, although her statesmen need no counsel in their domestic policy, they are unlearned in regard to dealings with foreign countries.

Removing Big Red Oak.

An effort is to be made to remove a large red oak tree from the wildest section of Arkansas to Forest Park, St. Louis, for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. The tree is 160 feet high and twelve feet in diameter at the base. A double tramway will be built from the tree to the river, where it will be floated and towed to St. Louis. It is estimated that this will occupy six months. The tree will be dug up by the roots instead of being cut down, and none of its branches will be trimmed.

Room for "Jack Tar."

Steer does not run all the world—not through solid carbons, which play a popular air. When the current is passing through solid carbons, they give off a musical sound, and by placing a sound across the carbons, connected with a keyboard, Mr. Duddell was able to vary the sounds through the scale of two octaves. The keyboard served to vary the self-induction and capacity in the shunt circuit, and by employing four arcs the intensity of the sounds was made sufficiently great.

Music From the Electric Arc.

A London electrician, Mr. W. Duddell, recently exhibited a novel musical instrument, composed of a series of electric lights, which played a popular air. When the current is passing through solid carbons, they give off a musical sound, and by placing a sound across the carbons, connected with a keyboard, Mr. Duddell was able to vary the sounds through the scale of two octaves. The keyboard served to vary the self-induction and capacity in the shunt circuit, and by employing four arcs the intensity of the sounds was made sufficiently great.

An Ancestor of DeWet.

The English government gives away £50,000 a year, more or less, to encourage matrimony among the women employees of the telegraph service. Women enter the service at an average age of 16. After six years, when the operator has reached the official marriageable age of 22, she is entitled to an allowance from the state. For each year of service she can draw one month's pay. As her salary is £25 a month, she can then claim £150. She waits until she is 25 she can draw £400. In practice the average amount paid has been found to be about £200.

Great Thoughts in Poetry.

Poetry teaches the enormous force of a few words, and, in proportion to the inspiration, checks loquacity. It requires that splendor of expression which carries with it the proof of great thoughts. Great thoughts insure musical expressions. Every word should be the right word. The poets are those who seek that spiritual is greater than any material force, that thoughts rule the world. The great poets are judged by the frame of mind they induce and to them, of all men, the severest criticism is due.—Parnassus.

THE RIVER NEWS.

(By W. F. LAMBIN, REPORTER.)

Observations taken at 7 a. m. River 23.2 on the gauge, a fall of 3.7 in last forty-eight hours. Wind, east, a light breeze. Weather, cloudy and warm. Temperature 43. —Pell, Observer.

The John S. Hopkins arrived from Evansville 5:30 this morning with a very light trip; departed on return to the "Hoosier City" at 10 a. m. with a correspondingly light trip.

Business until after New Year's in river circles will be very dull, and the same will be the case in general business of the city, as the majority of the people squandered their little savings for Christmas, which has come and gone, and now "Old Father Time" has commenced his grinding for another year.

The Clyde arrived from Tennessee river last night, 10 o'clock, with fair business; leaves on return trip today 5 p. m.

The Dick Fowler cleared for Cairo on time this morning with a feather weight tip.

The Charleston departed for Tennessee river yesterday with a fair trip. She will bring out a big trip for Jopps, and arrive here in time to leave on her regular schedule next Tuesday 5 p. m.

The Avalon arrived from Chattanooga last evening with a good trip; went through to Cairo. Will return this evening, and reload for Chattanooga. She has a big trip awaiting her arrival here.

Charley Beard, one of the handsome "star-gazers" of the Avalon, stopped off last evening, and his big brother Ed took the wheel for him to Cairo and return, which will give Charley a short time to spend the Christmas with parents and friends.

The H. W. Butteroff departed for Nashville yesterday noon with light business.

The The J. B. Richardson, Captain Frank Baugh in command, and James Tyner in the office, skipped for Evansville last night. She will load there for Nashville, and ply as heretofores in the trade between Evansville and Nashville until the low water season next summer.

Yesterday the river boys who were employed on the various boats arriving and departing yesterday, were royally feasted by the stewards of the boats. Turkey, oysters, pound cake, jelly cake, and winding up with "stomach cake" was the bill of fare.

Another coal boat rise in sight at Pittsburgh.

The John K. Speed leaves Cincinnati for New Orleans next Saturday. The John K. is certainly hard to knock out.

The Beaver is due from Cincinnati; will meet the T. H. Davis here or at Cairo, and take the tow of the Davis to Cincinnati, which consists of two million feet of lumber.

INCOME ACCOUNT OF RAILWAYS.

Washington, Dec. 26.—The preliminary report of the interstate commerce commission on the income account of railways in the United States for the year ended July 30, 1901, shows returns of railway companies operating 192,293 miles of line. The passenger earnings of these railways were $426,909,210 and the freight earnings $1,114,740,770. The total gross earnings were $1,578,164,205 or $8,411 per mile of line against $1,487,044,814 in 1901. Operating expenses amounted to $1,023,156,281, or $5,328 per mile of line, making net earnings $555,007,924, or $35,577,218 in excess of the fiscal year 1900. The amount of dividends declared during the year was $121,108,637, or $13,000,000 more than for the same roads in 1900. The surplus from operations was $77,744,735. The complete report for the preceding year showed a surplus of $87,637,933. The preliminary report is confined to returns of operating roads. The dividends paid by both operating and leased companies annually include about $30,000,000 paid on the part of the leased lines.

LOOKING FOR A BULLY.

THESE TWO MEN CERTAINLY FOUND SEVERAL OF THEM.

Two white men employed at one of the west end lumber concerns came down town yesterday and attempted to raise the limit of enjoyment. They seemed to be pretty full, and going into a gang of negroes, drew a pistol and began flourishing it. One of the negroes, Snake Wade, promptly knocked the man down and took the pistol away, refusing to return it. Yesterday afternoon he brought the weapon to police headquarters and turned it over to Marshal Crow, explaining the circumstances and was released.

ELDER W. C. DIMMITT DEAD.

Sturgis, Ky., Dec. 26.—From a telegram received from Sherman, Tex., it is learned that Elder W. C. Dimmitt, formerly of Kentucky and one of the most forceful and eloquent ministers of the Christian church, died at an advanced age. He was reared near Germantown, Ky., and early entered the ministry. He was also a prominent educator and a veteran of the Confederate army.

VALUABLE ART

Perhaps none of the many highly-priced calendars found in the art stores this season, will possess more real beauty and worth than the Fairy Art Calendar for 1902, offered by The N. K. Fairbank company. It not only eclipses all former efforts of this company, but it undoubtedly excels all rivalry in this line of publicity. It is, indeed, a work of art and must be seen to be appreciated.

The N. K. Fairbank company are mailing the beautiful calendar FREE to any one returning Ten Fairbank's Fairy soap Oval Fronts, or sending twelve two-cent stamps. Returning Ten Oval Fronts, however, is the best and surest way to obtain the Fairy Art Calendar. All grocers sell FAIRY Soap.

YOU DO NOT KNOW

what is the matter with you—feel all out of sorts. Are constantly troubled with sick headaches—you're not up to things and are cross and irritable. Bilious too, perhaps, and constipated. Your breath is offensive; you have a bad taste in your mouth and don't enjoy your food.

You have bad attacks of "the blues"—nothing seems worth while and you are altogether miserable in mind and body. Probability is you are taking headache powders for your headaches—they allay them for the time, but only for the time. Then you are taking pills and strong cathartics for your constipation and breath sweeteners for your bad breath.

None of these things get at the seat of the trouble and as the days go on you get worse instead of better and you will continue to get worse on this treatment. You are trying to cure effects instead of causes—the trouble is all in one place

IT'S YOUR STOMACH

Fact is when you sift the whole thing down, disorders of the stomach are responsible for nine-tenths of the ills that human flesh is heir to and if you will keep your stomach right you can be pretty sure of good health.

Cure your stomach and you will cure the rest. Get it in good condition and keep it so and you will be able to stop all the dosing and constant physicizing that seem necessary to you now.

There is only one thing for this purpose—a gentle, corrective laxative that assists nature (does not force it), puts the stomach in its normal condition, aids digestion and tones the whole system up. DAILY THOUGHT.

"Say nothing unkind to amuse yourself, nothing false to please others."

ANOTHER MESS TALKED OF.

The silly democratic press is whining again. This time it is because Gen. Miles got a richly deserved censure for officially intruding in the Schley affair. Gen. Miles got what he merited. He is largely a swashbuckler hero—a tin soldier who spends his time prancing himself and disgusting the people with his vanity. Gen. Miles was once a good soldier, and may be yet, but since he attained the high rank he is present holds, he has done little but strut. He did little in the Spanish-American war, and has done nothing in the way of actively suppressing the insurrection in the Philippines. He knows the rules of the war department, and knows that they do not sanction, but prohibit, public statements such as he gave out in the Schley affair, especially in matters that do not concern him. Yet he did it—not innocently or ignorantly—but with a full and complete knowledge that he was violating the regulations, and as the highest general in the army, setting a bad example for men under him to emulate. This is why his offense could not and should not have been overlooked. It was a case of exceptional indiscretions, a most flagrant disregard of discipline and called for a drastic rebuke. He got it, and the American people should be glad he did. The democratic press, however, simply because the statements he made were favorable to Admiral Schley, and they are Admiral Schley's friends and champions, have began the same tactics they adopted in the Schley case, and which caused Admiral Schley to be convicted by his own court, selected solely at his request, to investigate unofficial and irresponsible rumors. They made a mess of it, and if Gen. Miles, that picturesquely personification of vanity, allows them to egg him on and make his own folly the subject of any official "inquiry," they will cause him to make a mess of it, too. The democratic press is always hysterically stupid, and perhaps always will be. Some of the papers have sought to justify Gen. Miles' inanity by recalling the Spanish-American war incident known as the "round robin" and attempting to make it a paralleled case. The men who signed the "round robin" were then in the United States army and the "round robin" concerned directly exclusively and the men, and if it was a violation of army regulations, and the blame worthy were not called to answer for it, such a dereliction of duty on the part of those high in authority would not have justified indifference in Gen. Miles' case.

The offensiveness of Gen. Miles was interference in an affair that did not concern him or his department directly or indirectly, and is in no way similar to the "round robin" case. He had better let it drop. To incur the resentment of the powers that be will hurt no one but himself.

The constitutionality of the law appropriating $100,000 for the Goebel Reward Fund, is to be tested. If the courts decide that the "grafters" who held offices at Frankfort that year had no legal right to pass the law, it will be a good and salutary lesson to the gang, which has a whole lot to answer for already, and will sooner or later be shown up in its true colors. That there was no necessity for the outrageous appropriation of $100,000 for working up the Goebel case—or more properly, working the people—is evident to anyone who knows anything. Instead of finding the real murderer, it was likely to cause the crime, as it really did do, to be fastened on innocent people in order that unscrupulous politicians and lawyers may get the reward, some of them to pay people for swearing to lies, and some for prosecuting the accused. It was all a scheme. Senator Goebel was a smart man, and was taken off in a most cruel and cowardly manner, but that is no reason why his friends, simply because they were in the majority at Frankfort, should have appropriated $100,000 of the money collected from the people of the state to waste in this manner. It could have been spent to much better advantage in other ways, and should have been. Such a sheer waste of public funds is without mitigation, and should be forbidden by law. Mr. Goebel was defeated by a majority of the people of Kentucky and if they were not in favor of having him for governor, they certainly would not favor paying $100,000 for seeking his murderer, even if it would find him which it has not done.

Gen. Miles should have been reprimanded. In the first place, he knows little or nothing about the navy. In the second place, he violated the rules. Even the Memphis Commercial-Advertiser, the most rabid of the Schley papers, says:

"Gen. Miles exercised only a common right accorded to all civilians, but he violated one of the important rules governing army and navy officers, and Secretary Root was technically right in calling him to order. If the head of the army disregards these rules and regulations the subalterns will emulate his example, and in this way destroy all discipline. For the good of the service, therefore, it is necessary to have these rules observed to the very letter."

The fool with the "unloaded" gun has been supplanted by the one with the "blank" cartridge.

A number of small boys are truly glad that Christmas comes but once a year.

The fool-killer seems to have been enjoying a holiday yesterday.

Queen Alexander.

Love for children is a prominent trait of the character of the queen consort. She was passionately devoted to her own children, and she has never recovered from the death of her eldest son, the Duke of Clarence. Several months after her bereavement she was walking in the lanes near her home, when she met an old woman staggering under the weight of burdens too heavy for her. The princess stopped her to speak a few words of sympathy, and learned that she performed the duties of a carrier, executing commissions between two villages. "The bundles are too heavy for me!" she lamented, bursting into tears. "I never carried them when Jack was here." "Who is Jack and where is he now?" kindly inquired the princess. "Jack's my boy, and he's dead—dead!" wildly exclaimed the old woman. With another sympathetic word Alexandra turned away, hurriedly lowering her veil to hide her emotion. She could understand the sorrow of mother who had lost her boy. The next day there was sent to the woman a cart drawn by a stout donkey. In this cart the old carrier made her journeys in comfort for the rest of her life.

CARRIES THE STRAIN

Quite a strain on a child to grow. You find it about all you can do to live along as you are and keep well. Your child has to do all that and grow besides. Some children can't stand the extra strain. They get weak and sickly as a result of it.

This is where Scott's Emulsion does some of its best work. It is a strong "growing" medicine. It starts up new life in the backward child and strengthens the weak ones.

Scott's Emulsion takes all the extra strain and carries the children along until they are strong enough to stand it alone.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.—SCOTT & BOWNE, 499 Pearl Street, New York.

MANY USED BULLETS.

afternoon about 4 o'clock near Third and Broadway.

Some one shot him in the left leg, above the knee, with a .38 calibre pistol. The cartridge was a blank, but did nearly as much injury as a bullet would have done. He does not know who did the shooting, but says that it was purely accidental. A young Italian named Arlemene Casette, of near Second and Court streets, was thought to have been the person, but he says he did not do it, and does not know the young man who was shot. Casette had a pistol yesterday, but did not go off Second and Court street to fire it. Stevenson is suffering a great deal this morning, and will not be out again for some time. The bullet in the shell penetrated his leg to a distance of three inches, and to remove it is a difficult task. Dr. Robertson attended him. Stevenson lives at 100 North Twelfth street.

B. F. Gresham, of Tennessee, who claims to be employed on the L. C. road, was struck over the right eye by a brick this afternoon about 2 o'clock, back of the Klondike saloon on lower Court street, and seriously wounded. He said that a man called him insultingly name, and when he replied struck him over the eye with a brick. Gresham was badly cut, and was taken to the office of City Physician Coyle, where the injury was dressed.

Clyde Matthews, a small boy of the north side, was badly injured yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock near Eighth and Boyd streets, while playing with several companions who were shooting blank cartridges from a pistol. One of the boys ran up to him and shot his pistol against his left arm. The coat was torn and the arm badly burned and mangled to the bone. A mangled hole two and one-half inches long was inflicted by the shot, and the flesh torn and burned to the bone. Dr. Coyle was called and dressed the injury.

John Mix was cut in the cheek by an unknown country man yesterday near Fourth and Norton streets. It seems that the country man had a little too much fighting juice in him and went in to cut everything in sight. Dr. Coyle dressed the injury. The wound extended from near his ear to the corner of the mouth.

Willie Rouse, son of Rev. T. B. Rouse, of the Lone Oak section, was badly burned last evening. He had about two pounds of powder in his hand and it became ignited, burning him all over the face and hands. It is thought he will recover.

Mr. Wm. Bornemann, whose office is over the First National bank, had two windows shot out.

There was a window at the boat store out, also.

TO CLEAN AN OIL STOVE.

How to Handle a Thorough Useful Kitchen Article.

The first thing to be done in cleaning an oil stove is to remove the iron top which acts as a chimney. Turn each wick as low as possible in the burner. Wrap a small, soft cloth out of hot suds and rub it hard on a cake of sand soap, then with a wooden skewer or a small-pointed knife push the cloth down on the inside of the burner a good quarter of an inch and rub off all of the brown deposit; this will probably require considerable scouring. If it cannot be gotten rid of in this way, cut it off with the knife. Next scour the outside of the burner, life off the netting and scour thoroughly. Wipe all parts with a dry cloth. Turn the wicks up and rub off the charred edge. If necessary, cut each wick, then light to make sure that it is even. Once it is cut true it will seldom need more than a daily rubbing off of the charred portion and the clipping of loose threads. When not in use the wicks should be turned down until just below the top of the burner. The iron chimney will probably need a thorough cleaning, rubbing hard with the soaped cloth and skewer. When every corner is perfectly clean, it is rubbed dry and replaced on the stove. This first cleaning, especially if the stove has been in use for some time, is likely to be difficult, but, once clean, the burner and chimney can be kept in good condition by going lightly over them daily. Then by being careful to avoid the smoking, the oil stove should prove what it was intended to be, a thoroughly useful article, and with care should last for many years.—Cornelia C. Bedford in Ledger Monthly.

Submarine Telephony.

A French engineer by the name of Marchie claims to have solved the problem of telephoning by submarine cables for great distances. His experiments are reported as having been very extensive and exhaustive and as having resulted recently in his being able to transmit a telephone message, with perfect distinctness, from Calais, through a cable 400 miles long.

A Seal's Narrow Escape.
A few years ago some fishermen were following their vocation off a harbor on the Maine coast, when they observed a seal swimming on the surface, and soon made out a seal leaping from the water as if followed by some enemy.

It came near the boat, swimming around it several times, and then, making a leap, the men saw that it was being chased by a large fish.

One of the fishermen dropped his line, and, stepping into the bow, leaned over and held out his hands. To his amazement the seal immediately dashed toward him, and, with his help, scrambled out of the water into the boat, just in time to escape the sharp weapon of a swordfish that darted by, its big eyes glaring, probably in wonder at the method of escape, to its fishy intelligence being evidently a case of out of the frying pan into the fire.

But the little seal apparently knew better, and it need not be said that its confidence was not misplaced, as the men were so pleased with its action in coming to them that they kept it as a pet, and the seal became a familiar object about the shore.

The Spell Broken.

BY MARY MARSHALL PARKS. (Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Anderson says he met you on the avenue yesterday, but he was not sure that you recognized him," said Jack, with a troubled look in his honest eyes.

"I am delighted to hear it," answered Madge, with a trill of gay laughter. "That was precisely the state of mind that I wished to produce, but I was not certain I had acquired the necessary manner. I believe my education is now complete. What an unsophisticated creature I was a year ago!"

"I liked the old Madge best," said Jack, bluntly.

"Did you?" said Madge, indifferently. "But what a goose I was! I had so many illusions. I believed in so many things and so many people, almost everything and everybody, I think, absurd as it seems."

"I had hoped you would always be kind to my friends, Madge. Anderson is no carpet-knight; but he is an honest man and a good fellow."

"That was simply one of your little misapprehensions," replied Madge, lightly. "I shall always choose my own friends."

"I did not mean that you should make my friends yours in the nearest sense. That would be unreasonable," said Jack gravely. "All I ask is common civility."

"That also is at my own discretion," retorted Madge wilfully.

"I could never cut any one except for the gravest reasons," said Jack, soberly. "I never cut any one in my life but Dick Foster."

"Dick Foster? And what has he done to incur your displeasure?" Madge asked, with a bright, hard look.

"You know that Ella Parsons is in the insane asylum and you know why," said Jack, sternly. "He ought not to be received in decent society."

Madge's face grew still harder. "It may as well be understood once for all that I shall recognize whom I please, and when and where I please," she said, icily. "That is a matter in which I would not be guided by the Prince of Good Form himself."

"And who is that?" asked the astonished Jack.

"Dick Foster," she responded with another hard glance.

Jack rose unsteadily. He was not going to quarrel with Madge just then. He was not fit. For days he had been aware that his head and legs were a little queer. Nothing serious, he said to himself, as he descended the steps; and yet his feet were still unsteady and his head curiously light.

It would have been easy for him to give Madge up had he not firmly believed that the sweet-souled, dewy-eyed girl w^to had won his heart still dwelt somewhere within that cold and wordly exterior, like a princess shut in a tower, waiting for some bold knight to release her from the spell of the enchanter.

"I fear I'm not the knight," he thought sadly, as he walked heavily down the street; and still, he could not decide to give her up—not just yet.

"Jack Downing is downed at last," said some would-be wit among the swaying figures on the ball room floor.

"Brain fever." The words drifted into the conservatory where Madge was sitting, and for a moment she thought the lights had

"And who is that?" gone out. Then they blazed up again with ten-fold brilliancy, and at the same time the white light of reason and common sense that had been so long obscured in the girl's soul flashed out with all its old power, shattering to atoms the shell of worldliness and scepticism which had closed around her heart.

Seeing that Dick Foster was scanning her with a look of cool curiosity, she composed her face and summoned up all the self-control she possessed.

"I will go home now, if you please, Mr. Foster," she said coldly.

"He has simply been overworked, my dear child," the old doctor repeated, soothingly. "As you know, his father was obliged to go to Europe for a prolonged vacation; and that threw the whole responsibility of the business on the boy. He has carried the weight nobly for one so young; but I warned him weeks ago that he was overdoing, and must slacken his pace. I suppose he couldn't see his way clear to do it. He has a trained nurse and the best of care, and will pull him through all right."

Although Madge went home convinced that she had flattered herself too much in thinking that her insignificant doings had brought about Jack's illness, she was not entirely reassured. Even if she had added little to the load he had been carrying, she had done nothing to lighten it, and she might have done so much. She had not dreamed it was so heavy.

"And while he was toiling like a slave, you—you were flirting with Dick Foster," she said contemptuously to the pale face that confronted here as she took the fading flowers from her hair and shook down the shining coils.

Jack's hands lay like withered leaves

"It is the old Madge, dear." on the snowy coverlet, and the wan, shivering face on the pillow seemed hardly human, but his eyes were bright with returning life and dawning hope.

"Has the princess escaped from the tower at last? Is it really the old Madge?" he whispered, doubtfully.

"It is the old Madge, dear," she answered, tears and smiles struggling for the mastery of her mobile face, in spite of the doctor's injunction as to excitement. "Mr. Anderson is downstairs. We are the best of friends now and he brought me here. Shall I tell him to come up?"

"Not just yet," said Jack, happily studying the face bent over him, and finding in it all he had so loved—and more. The cynical curl of the lips was gone, the dewy freshness had come back to the eyes, and brought with it a sweet, grave womanliness that had never been there before.

"It is worth far, far more than a brain fever costs," he said at last, with a sigh of satisfaction.

MENDING POCKET KNIVES.

Sentimental Reasons that Lead People to the Cutler's Shop.

A man of inquiring turn who had read on the front of a cutler's shop the sign "Pocket Knives Reloaded and Rehandled," and who recalled the fact that, when he was a boy, he used to get a new blade put in sometimes when he broke one out of his knife, found, upon inquiry, that boys still get new blades put in knives just as they used to, but that, as a matter of fact, the people who have pocket knives repaired are mostly older persons, and that the knives are likely to be valued for their associations. "I've carried that knife for fifty years," says one gentleman, and he holds over a knife that he's carried since he was a boy, and that he'd hate to lose. Many knives brought in for repairs are prized because they are gifts; or they were bought in some foreign country, or they just suit the hand of the man that uses them. There are various more or less sentimental reasons why a man may prefer to keep the old knife rather than discard it for a new one. Then it may be that in some other cases, the knife is too valuable to be thrown away. So that first and last and for one reason and another out of the vast number of pocket knives carried a good many come in to be mended. The phrase "reloaded and rehandled" suggested, of course, the idea of a complete renewal, and the inquirer wondered if it might not be possible that with the repair of a knife in one part and another such a renewal might occur. And the cutler said that not only was it possible, but that sometimes it actually did happen that with successive renewals of its various parts the whole knife came sometimes to be entirely renewed, and there was left of the original knife nothing.—New York Sun.

TRAILING ARBUTUS.
I wandered lonely where the pine trees were made
Against the bitter East their barricade
And guided by its sweet
Perfume I found within a narrow dell
The trailing spring flower tuted like a shell
Amid dry leaves and mosses at my feet.
From under dead boughs, for whose loss
the pines
Moaned ceaseless overhead, the blossoming vines
Lifted their glad surprise,
While yet the bluebird smoothed in leafless trees His feathers, ruffled by the chilled sea breeze.
And snowdrifts lingered under April skies.
As pausing, o'er the lonely flower I bent,
I thought of lives thus lowly, clogged and
Which yet find room.
Through care and cumber, coldness and decay
To lend a sweetness to the ungenial day
And make the sad earth happier for their bloom.

J. G. Whittier.

Two Worlds and Their Children.

BY ETHEL M. COLSON.

(Copyright, 1899, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
The trolley car which had been dashing along toward Chicago stopped suddenly, held upon a suburban street corner by the inevitable coal wagon with a tendency to break down. Franklin Atherton gazed idly at the earnest group of Salvation Army workers on the other side of the street. Suddenly in a momentary cessation of the ponderous drum-beats a clear, sweet, feminine voice faltered out softly:

"Ah! I have sighed to rest me
Deep in the quiet grave."

The rest of the words were surprising Salvation Army adaptations of the most characteristic type. But Franklin Atherton never heard them. With a bound he had reached the side of the singer—the girl whom he would have asked to become his wife long ago but that he feared to face poverty with her. He had not seen her for nearly two years.

"Margaret! How came you with these people?"

The girl looked at him gravely.

"When your world—the world which was mine also until my father died and left me penniless—found no time or space or attention for me I turned to the world in which men and women work instead of play. I'm knowing how to work I went hungry. When I was homeless and seeking death because no other course seemed open the Salvation Army workers found me. They saved my life—and soul. Now I am trying to save others."

The gong of the trolley clanged out at the moment. It seemed like a summons to another world.

"Margaret!" The words seemed drawn from him. "Leave this life, for God's sake! Come with me."

"As your wife, Franklin?"

The flicker of doubt and uncertainty in his eyes was so short-lived that few would have seen it. But the girl turned away as though she had suffered a blow.

"No—dear," she answered. "Not now. You are not strong enough to take me just yet. But," she called after him as he sprang aboard the trolley, "we may meet again, some time. When we do, perhaps—"

But he was gone.

Three years later Franklin Atherton had also disappeared from the world which had once known him. Excessive haste to be rich, the gambling fever, an unlucky speculation, these were the successive steps by which he had reached starvation and despair. For a man of his temperament all things seemed ended. He was heading for the river when there smote upon his jaded ear the sound of a flagellated drum, the clear note of a silver trumpet. Then, as he listened instinctively:

"Ah! I have sighed to rest me
Deep in the quiet grave."

It was no dream. It was not the result of a fevered imagination. The voice was unmistakable, the intonation quite beyond question. His manhood left him suddenly, and he sank down upon the curbstone, sobbing. The clear, sweet voice came nearer. A gentle hand was laid upon his arm.

"How came you with these people?"

"What is the matter, my brother? What can we do to help you?"

Soft, hurrying footsteps followed him into the shadowy, darkened sidestreet which he had entered. Again the gentle hand was laid upon his arm.

"It's no use, Margaret. Do you suppose I'll be bad enough to let you know, after the treatment you have received at my hand? God bless you—good-by."

The girl made no immediate answer—in words.

Turning, she beckoned to the blue-coated co-worker who had followed her from the lighter street.

"This is a very dear friend of mine,

"Lieutenant Caldwell," she told him, with a voice which shook a little from varied emotions, but with eyes which shone and sparkled, "and he is in trouble, in need of assistance. I know I can trust you to do all that you can for him, for my sake as well as for the sake of—the man who is going to be my husband some day."

"Margaret!"

The man was humbled as neither poverty, slights, hunger, cold, nor raggedness had been potent to humble him. But there was no bitterness in the humility with which he kissed her fingers, there in the darkened street.

"Margaret, you are an angel, and I will be worthy of you yet. I swear it. I will be your husband some day—it the good Lord and yourself will allow it—but I'll be man first, by God!"

And the quiet stars, looking down impressively on the flagellated drum and the throbbing hearts of the men and women around it, saw and knew.

MARRIAGE BELLS.

The Irion-McGlathery Wedding This Morning.

The Humble-Sallee Nuptials Last Night
at Mr. O. L. Gregory's.

Quite a representative crowd was gathered at the Broadway Methodist church this morning to witness the marriage of Miss Katherine McGlathery to Rev. John Witt Irion, which was an exceedingly pretty and solemn ceremonial.

The church was decorated with palms and ferns, effectively arranged about the altar.

The bridal party entered by the Seventh and Broadway entrance and advanced down the two aisles in the following order: First, Mr. James McGlathery and Mr. Walter Ketchum, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Saidie Mercer of Mercer, Tenn., and Miss Bessie Irion of Paris, Tenn., on the right aisle and Mr. B. J. Billings and Mr. W. R. Wells of Glass, Tenn., followed by the maid of honor, Miss Mattie Lou McGlathery, on the left. The bride entered with her father, Mr. F. M. McGlathery, from the left, while the groom and his best man, Dr. J. H. McSwain of Paris, Tenn., advanced down the right aisle. At the altar they were met by the ministers, Rev. E. S. Harris of Clinton, Ky., and Rev. H. B. Johnston of the city, and the ceremony was most impressively performed.

The bride looked very charming in an artistic street gown of grey and white, with a hat in symphony, and carried bride roses. The maid of honor, wore a stylish street costume of green and white, Miss Mercer a blue gown with white trimmings and Miss Irion a tan and pink, and all looked very attractive.

Mr. S. H. Winstead presided at the organ, playing Mendelssohn as a precessional, and "The Bridal Morn" as a recessional, and "Call Me Thine Own" throughout the ceremony.

Miss McGlathery is a young lady of rarely fine qualities, charming, pretty and lovable, and has many friends in Paducah, where she has lived only a few years. Rev. Mr. Irion is the talented young pastor of the Trimble street Methodist church, and is exceedingly popular in the city.

A number of handsome presents were received, attesting to their popularity.

Mr. and Mrs. Irion left at noon for St. Louis, and on their return will keep house on West Trimble street.

Rev. W. D. Pickens of Woodville was licensed to perform marriage ceremonies yesterday.

The following marriage licenses have been issued since the 24th: C. S. McCann, aged 23, a ship carpenter, to Miss Minnie Taylor, aged 27, of the city. It will make the first marriage of the groom and the second of the bride.

G. H. Mills, aged 31, of the county, to Eva R. Nicholson, aged 21, of Graves county. It will make the first marriage of both.

Frank Reed, aged 23, of Symponia, to Nina Culp of Symponia, aged 17. It will make the first marriage of both.

Charles Tobias Schmaus, aged 34, of the county, to Nellie Willis Boatwright, of the county, aged 17. It will make the first marriage of both.

Colored: James Porter of Evansville, aged 24, to Emma James of the city, aged 22. First marriage of both.

J. H. Griffith was this morning appointed the guardian of Thomas J. Griffith, aged 7 months.

One of the most beautiful and charming occasions in Paducah's social history was the marriage of Miss Susan Elvira Humble of Lebanon, Ky., and Mr. William Harrison Sallee of Danville, Ky., at the handsome Gregory home on North Ninth street, at 8 o'clock last evening, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lee Gregory's crystal wedding reception at 9 o'clock.

The handsome rooms were most artistically decorated for the occasion. The front hall was in green, with graceful vines everywhere, here were a number of pink lights which shed a beautiful glow over the scene. The room opening out of the hall was in white and green, and in the archway a double heart of white and pink roses hung. Here the wedding party stood, and the setting and scene were most charming and effective. Miss Ella Hay of Danville and Miss Carrie Showers of Elizabethtown were the bridesmaids. Miss Bettie Irvine of Springfield was the maid of honor. Miss Lillian Gregory was the ring bearer.

Mr. Ireland of Danville, the best man, the bride's attendants all wore white, and looked very charming. The bride wore a handsome wedding gown of renaissance over silk, and her bridal veil was pinned with the groom's gift, a beautiful diamond and pearl pin, and orange flowers. Mr. Gregory, the uncle of the bride, gave her away. Rev. W. H. Pinkerton of the First Christian church performed the ceremony very impressively. Only a few friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony, and the bridal guests were served with refreshments in a small room opening out of the hall, which was decorated in Golden Gate roses. The bridal cakes and ices were most artistic symphonies of white and green, the ices being in the shape of loving cups with green handles, and the cakes in white with green candy bow knots.

The bride has been spending the winter here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Gregory, and has made many friends. She is a most charming young lady, and never looked more beautiful than on last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sallee left at midnight for a bridal trip east, and on their return will make their home near Danville, in the groom's fine old ancestral home, "Elmwood."

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory's crystal wedding reception has been looked forward to for some weeks, and the house was thronged during the hours, from nine to twelve, with the friends of this exceedingly popular couple. In the dining room was a beautiful Christmas tree, hung with a myriad of crimson lights. Here the refreshments were an artistic blending of red and white in ices and cakes, all being in unique shapes, ornamented with roses.

The presents received were exceedingly handsome, and the variety and beauty of the display of crystal testified to the good wishes of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison Sallee, Miss Sallee, Danville, Miss Bettie Irvine of Springfield, Miss Showers of Elizabethtown, Miss Hay of Danville, Mr. Ireland of Danville, Mr. Sallee of Danville, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rawls, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Cook Husbands, Mr. and Mrs. George Flournoy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Overby, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Whitefield, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Humphreys, Mrs. John Campbell, Mr. Edwin J. Paxton, Mr. J. D. Moquon.

Mr. Pete Burnett and bride, who was Miss Alice Scotts of Charleston, Mo., were married yesterday morning, and arrived in the city last night, taking rooms at the Palmer.

An approaching marriage of people well known in this end of the state is that of Miss Lizzie Lou Harris of Fulton to Rev. S. W. Kendrick of Palms, Tenn., on January 8th at Fulton.

In "Nathan Hale" Mr. Clyde Fitch has written a play that will endure as long as the stars and stripes shall retain their potency to stir the patriotism of Americans. The best play is the one that is independent of its dialogue to the extent of being susceptible of interpretation in pantomime. No more striking proof of the truth of this contention can be found than is afforded in the last act of "Nathan Hale." The pathetic parting with Alice Adams, his sweetheart, is accomplished absolutely without a word spoken, and it is safe to say that nowhere in the history of the drama can a more effective scene and one that by its intensity so grips the heart strings of the sympathetic spectator be found. Seats now on sale for Saturday's matinee and night.

Does your mirror reflect clean, white teeth and sound gums? If not, then use Jennelle's tooth powder.

ATTACHMENT MAY BE RELEASED.

The members of the "Shadows of Sin" company are preparing to effect a compromise in the suit against Manager Schaeffer. A meeting was held this afternoon, and if the arrangements are completed today, the compromise will be effected and the attachment on his private car released.
